

Dr Allison Saltrese

Dr Allison Saltrese has over 30 years' experience in establishing, managing and researching support packages for people with complex neurological needs. She uses her diverse practical, professional and academic background in her work as an expert witness and case manager.

Allison is, is an advanced member of BABICM and a founder member of the British Psychological Society SIG on Coaching. She has co-authored several peer reviewed papers, case management standards of practice for (CMSUK 2005, 2009) and the first case management ethics statement (BABICM & CMSUK 2008).

Her PhD research investigated how case managers used their informal learning experiences to support people with traumatic brain injury. Allison is keen to support colleagues interested in undertaking case management research.

