

BABICMs New and Would Be workshop is a regular event for BABICM. It is run twice a year, once in the North and once in the South of England.

The event is led by two experienced brain injury case managers, Joanne Foster and Sally Wilkinson who are the Chair and Vice Chair of the Training and Education Group

The majority of delegates who attend this workshop are new to brain injury and complex case management or are considering entering the profession and want to know more.

BABICM's 'New & Would Be' workshop is regarded by case management companies and our members as the definitive introductory course for new and aspiring brain injury & complex case managers.

Attendees & speakers share experiences and best practice advice at BABICM's New & Would Be Workshop

Feedback from previous workshops :

"It is useful for an induction to those new to case management. It captured an awful lot with great speakers."

"As well as useful information surrounding claims, all aspects of medical legal practices were accessible (which is) great for new members."

"BABICM is a really welcoming organisation and New and Would Be provided a much needed, basic grounding and introduction to case management."

"This event was great as it provided an understanding of client-based issues and how to navigate them."

"This was an amazing introduction to case management. The trainers had excellent delivery, there were real case studies and examples discussed and the workbooks provided were informative."

"The information applied to people from a mix of disciplines. As well as a great venue at an easy to find location, New and Would Be makes you want to join the world of case management."

"Passionate, insightful and concise speakers discussed case studies in thorough (detail), they felt very much needed."

"I found this to be a great networking opportunity. Useful connections were made and continue to be made since attending."

BABICMs Beyond the Beginnings workshop is a regular event for BABICM. It is run twice a year, once in the North and once in the South of England. It is perfect for Case Managers who have completed our 'New & Would Be' Case Managers Workshop (Level 1) and for those who have started their case management journey and wish to learn more.

The sessions will cover the litigation process, terminology, tricky issues and how the clinical work of case managers fits into the mix.

The event is run by two experienced case managers from the Training and Education group – Tracey Clarke and Tom Miners- plus representatives from a legal firm.

Attendees & speakers share experiences and best practice advice at BABICM's
Beyond the Beginnings Workshop

Feedback from previous workshops :

“I attended the New and Would be Level 1 and followed on with this training which was felt like a continuation of the same event.”

“Really informative, enjoyed the workshop and discussions”

“Lovely to hear others experience of CM”

“Guest speakers from solicitors were very informative and happy to answer any questions”

“Beyond the Beginnings is a good starting point for Case managers”

For details of our upcoming new and would workshops, please visit our Events page